— Charles Kinghorn

Sir Leslie Munroe, United Nations representative on the Hungarian question, is seen delivering his speech to some 100 student delegates attending the closing banquet of the McGill Conference on World Affairs in Redpath Hall.

Munroe Closes MCWA; UN May Discuss Hungary

The problem of Russian aggression in Hungary may be reviewed soon by the United Nations General Assembly.

Arts and Science Election Tuesday, 18 Nominations

An unprecedented total of 18 nominations were received for the six available positions on the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society.

The candidates nominated were:

Second Year Representative: Anne Begor; Mike Blumenstein; Brian Denyar; Harold Elman; Billy Fraiberg; Beverly Henderson; Stanley Messor.

Third Year Class Representative: Stanley Eaman; Ronald Meade.

Senior Class Executive — Permanent Class President: Andy Billingsley (acclaimed).

Vice-president: Mr. Vivian B. Millington (acclaimed). Secretary: Fred Wiseman (acclaimed).

Elections will be held on Tuesday, November 24 from 10 am-5 pm in the foyer of the Arts Building.

Sir Leslie Munroe, the special representative of the U.N. on the question of Hungary, revealed Friday he has recommended to the United Nations General Committee that the problem be considered again. Speaking at the closing banquet of the McGill Conference on World Affairs in Redpath Hall, he explained to one hundred student delegates that if the General Committee accepts the recommendation the matter is then included in the General Assembly agenda.

He declared that it is extremely important that the U.N. examine the Hungary question again because Russia has persistently violated all former promises to remove troops from the country and to stop executions. "The very least we of the Western World can do," he said, "is talk about the situation... we owe it to the people of Hungary."

Sir Leslie revealed that his repeated demands to visit Hungary in order to report to the U.N. have been rejected. He added: "Eventually Russia will no longer be responsible to the U.N. for its actions in Hungary if we allow this situation to continue."

He stated that while tensions have lessened to a degree in Europe, there has been a significant increase in tension in Asia. Along with the rift between Russia and the West, he said, there is the growing division between the de-

WINDSOR — (Special) — Principal F. Cyril James indicated last Friday that he does not expect the federal grants problem to be solved until early 1960. Dr. James added that he feels recently appointed Premier Paul Sauve is making a great effort to help higher education in Quebec. "Premier Sauve is striving with courage, energy and great enthusiasm to solve the financial plight of Quebec universities," said the Principal in a speech to the Windsor, Ontario, branch of the Graduates' Society.

Meanwhile Federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming, speaking in Quebec City, raised hopes that the Federal and Provincial governments will soon agree on a new plan enabling Quebec Universities to receive federal grants. Speaking to a group of Laval University commerce students, Mr. Fleming expressed Ottawa's determination to solve the grants problem "in a fair manner so as to remove once and for all this cause of friction between Quebec and Ottawa."

OBSERVERS OPTIMISTIC

Observers believe Mr. Fleming's determined attitude and his remark that his meeting with Premier Sauve had helped in "clarifying" the latter's proposal, indicate that the controversy may be near a solution. Some think the solution will involve imposition of a new provincial tax — possibly a corporation tax — with the Ottawa government agreeing to make the tax deductible. The new tax would provide revenue for statutory provincial grants to universities.

Mr. Fleming emphasized that the federal government recognizes that education under the BNA Act is exclusively a matter for provincial jurisdiction. "As long as the present government is in power, never will any attempt be made to encroach on this exclusively provincial field," he declared.

DR. F. CYRIL JAMES

About twenty-five million dollars in federal grants for Quebec universities has accumulated in Ottawa since 1958, including six million dollars destined for McGill.

TREMENDOUS EXPANSION

In his speech at Windsor, Principal James said that he expects Canadian university enrollment to double by 1965 and triple by 1970. "The shortage of trained university teachers is another problem which will have to be solved with the increase in expansion," he said. "A great gap exists in trained personnel who graduated during the depression and war years, and even since the war, university salaries have not kept pace with those in government and industry."

The Principal pointed out that the maximum number of students McGill can accommodate is about 9500. Enrollment has increased from 3000 in 1938 to 7900 today. "A university of larger size ceases to provide that intimate inter-faculty and student-faculty relationship necessary to academic life," he stated.

SELECTION PROBLEM

Mentioning the problem of selecting university candidates, Dr. James stated that the increasing lateness of provincial high school leaving exams is an important factor. This is especially true in Ontario, mainly because of the large number of graduating students the Department of Education has to handle each year. The principal added that McGill has been experimenting with college entrance board examinations, which are used in the United States. Written in January or February, they make results available in March.

Last year all first year McGill students took the tests, and the results were compared with provincial and McGill entrance exams. Although the results of the experiment are still incomplete, Dr. James indicated that McGill is likely to adopt some sort of preliminary examination to enable the university to select candidates early in the year. He also revealed that Canadian universities are contemplating a central admissions office to eliminate some of the duplication of paper work at the schools.

RUSSIA MENTIONED

Commenting on his recent visit to the Soviet Union, Principal James remarked that the Russian university student works a great deal harder than his North American counterpart. He has written a book about his tour of Soviet educational institutions which will be published soon by the University of Toronto Press under the title "Impressions of the USSR." "We are in a period in which every society in almost every country realizes the importance of university education," he declared.

POLIO SHOTS

All those who wish to receive their polio vaccination shots may do so Monday, November 23, in the Union from 10 am - 5 pm. All shots will be given, especially the third one. The clinic is being sponsored by the Canadian Polio Foundation, and will be open to students as well as staff members and their wives.

Plumber Pets Picked; Friday Decides Queen

Last Friday a panel of judges selected five finalists to vie for the title of "Queen of the Engineering Fall Informal", 1959. The five candidates were announced as: Pat Falta, Mary Harper, Judy Lamb, Marie-José Raymond, and Carole Shiller.

Fifteen girls were nominated, and the judges had a difficult task in making their choice.

The finalists will appear at various spots on campus daily from 1-2 pm in preparation for the Informal on Friday, November 27, at the Gym. The first appearance will be tomorrow in lobby of the old engineering building.

Voting will take place in a novel way. The tickets are equipped with the ballots, and only ticket-holders can vote.

The EUS has announced that tickets go on sale today in both engineering buildings, the Union, and in the lobbies of the Arts Building and the PSC.

PROVINCIAL LOANS

Quebec students who received the maximum Quebec Provincial Bursary for 1959-60 and are still in financial need may now apply for further aid for the current year. This additional aid is wholly loan and is interest free till two years after graduation or cessation of university training.

English application forms are not yet printed, but forms in French may be picked up in Rm. 410 Dawson Hall.

All That Glitters

This year what appears to be a near-record number of candidates have been nominated to contest the eleven posts of faculty representative on the S.E.C. Never before can we recall a time when there were so few acclamations, and so many people running for the remaining seats. We hope this is an indication of increased student interest in student affairs.

But an increased number of candidates also poses problems. Several weeks ago the Daily commented that eleven seats on the Council would be "up for grabs". The reason, we said, was that the campus electorate tended to be uninformed, and thus many people often won by sheer fluke. If the electorate remains uninformed this year the situation will be even worse. With so many candidates running, a split vote between two capable persons may allow an incompetent person to win. People planning to exercise their right to vote this Thursday must do plenty of thinking about the situation now.

Firstly, the voter must realize that an S.E.C. election is not a popularity contest. Just because you are a friend of one of the candidates doesn't mean you should vote for him (or her). And don't vote for someone just because you feel no one else will. The S.E.C. is the supreme student government on this campus. It controls an annual budget of some $160,000. Many times during the course of the year, the new Council will be called upon to make policy decisions which will in the long run affect every McGill student. The candidate required to do the job must be a clear-thinking, independent person. He must be prepared to say and vote for what he thinks right, and not be bulldozed by some other member or group to vote the way that member or group wishes. While representing a particular faculty or school, he must vote for the general, overall good of the student body, and not for any particular vested interest.

To choose such a candidate from the myriad of those nominated will be no mean task. Peruse the platforms and pensketches carefully. Do not be influenced by the names of any campus "wheel", present or past, who happens to sign a particular pensketch. Often this means only that the signer is a friend of the candidate or just happened to be asked first to sign that particular pensketch. Instead, examine the record of each candidate. If he was or is an executive on such-and-such organization, inquire from more than one member of that group just how well he performed his task. Examine very carefully the candidate's pensketch. Does he have any concrete ideas to put forth? If so, are they sound? Does the lack of any concrete ideas indicate the candidate is an unthinking person and that he had nothing to say, or does it mean that he will carry out his job as S.E.C. representative to the best of his ability, making decisions only when he has learned all the facts and listened to the discussion of the pros and cons when the subject was brought up at Council?

To answer the last question a prospective voter will no doubt have a difficult time. This is why the Daily recommended that retiring council members take it upon themselves to make sure that the candidates in their own faculties were introduced impartially to as many voters as possible. So far, we have seen no move to even attempt to carry out our suggestions. (Perhaps this is an indication of the interest shown by the retiring members in ensuring that their places are filled with competent persons.) In fact, the only person who seems to be doing anything in the direction of our suggestions is the President, who has arranged that all S.E.C. candidates be introduced at the Students' Society meeting next Wednesday. Make it a point to be there. After the meeting make sure you meet personally those candidates running for your faculty or school. Question them carefully so that you know in your own mind who will be the best representative for you.

Only by doing this will you be properly fulfilling your duty as a student voter.

Correction

In last Friday's editorial we stated "women students give only $1.50 to the Students' Society...." This was a typographical error, the sum supposed to have been $11.50.

A Statement Of Policy

Last Friday there appeared in the Daily a features article containing certain passages which we consider were in poor taste. It is not the policy of this paper to publish such articles, the particular one in question having been printed without the prior knowledge of the Managing Board. We wish to assure our readers that appropriate measures have been taken to prevent similar articles from appearing in the future.

When the next issue of twice-weekly Journal hit the campus stands, it was evident that Editor-in-Chief Tom Marshall and his staff are going to back up their edict.

Terrific Season Sought For McGill Hoopsters

The McGill Redmen Basketball team go on the warpath Tuesday night at the Currie Gym at 8:30 in an attempt to scalp the Sir Georgians College Georgians.

The Red and White will be going after their second victory in as many starts. They defeated Loyola 67-37 in their last outing.

This year's edition of the Redmen is composed of many new faces, with the holdovers being Gary Ulrich, John Moore and Tom Richards. Ulrich was the team's highest scorer last year and received recognition for his strong play by being voted to the Montreal All-star team.

Many of the cagers, although rookies in a McGill uniform are not rookies as far as basketball is concerned. John Newson played at Stanford University. Another Californian is Don Bishop, a 6'2" centre. The third Yankee on the squad is Dave Boyd who hails from Seattle. In the last game, Boyd saw action in both the guard and forward positions and was very impressive.

Two members of last year's Intermediate team are now with the Redmen. They are Ben Shore and Spencer Lanthier. George Miecowsky and Morris Limonchik, top Intercollegiate Discus and Shot Put man, played with the University Settlement Orphans. Bill Borkowsky, another member of the track and field team, played extremely well last week and should prove to be a valuable asset to coach Sharpe's squad.

In comparison to last year's squad, this year's team seems to have a better starting 5 and more depth on the bench. The reason that Coach Sharpe has only 3 holdovers from last year's team is due to the fact that 4 of last year's squad have graduated and 4 others who are presently at McGill are not playing for various reasons.

Of the latter 4, Harvey Lazar, Cal Cooper, and Al Klevorick have decided to devote more time to their studies, while Irving Kirsch has decided not to play this year as he injured both knees while running for McGill in a 12 mile marathon.

In a preliminary game, the McGill Indians, who last week defeated the Loyola Juniors, will entertain the Junior Georgians at 7:15.

GEORGIAN HOOPSTERS OPTIMISTIC

by TERRY ROSENBAUM

It will be a big Georgian squad meeting the Redmen Tuesday night, and by the looks of things the McGill boys might have a wee bit of trouble putting them in their place.

The Sir George team has had a very good record of 103 wins and 18 losses in the past 10 years of intercollegiate play; and they mean to keep this record by the looks of their powerful team. The starting line-up against McGill will be headed by captain Rick Fraitag, a veteran to the Georgian squad, Willie Epstein a 6'4" centre and Sy Luteran, who won the Thompson trophy last year for being the most improved player.

The only weak spot on the team, is a little notch in the defence department which could prove costly against a strong opponent. Last year they lost 3 heart-breakers by a one point margin because of a defensive lapse.

One of the biggest assets of the Sir George team is the overwhelming support they get from their fans. This is one area where McGill could stand some improvement.
